	WHAT TO DO	DON'T FORGET
AM	Start your day off at The Friendly Toast in the Back Bay — a bustling, eclectic restaurant with tons of knick-knacks hung on the walls for kids to look at while waiting for breakfast.	Don't miss Anadama bread/toast — a classic New England staple combining cornmeal and molasses.
	Walk off breakfast through the Boston Common and Public Garden, visiting the ducklings and the swan boats. End your walk at Park Street Station, pick up the Green Line D toward Riverside, and head to Fenway Park for a day game.	Purchase tickets here
PM	FENWAY FRANKS For lunch, grab some Fenway Franks and Del's Lemonade for a quintessential taste of New England summer.
	Walk down Brookline Avenue toward 401 Park Drive. Stop in at Trillium Taproom, a local brewing company, for an adult beverage and some green space for kids to run around. Right inside is the Time Out Market if you need to grab a snack.	If you are a fan of sour beers, try the daily serving — always in rotation, it's the perfect summer beer.
	To wrap up your evening, walk a block down Boylston to Sweet Cheeks Q, a southern-inspired affair by chef/owner Tiffani Faison, four-time James Beard Award finalist for best chef in the Northeast.	Everything here is excellent, but don't miss the buttermilk biscuits and a side of mac n' cheese.

WHAT TO DO

DON'T FORGET

AM

Jumpstart your morning with Kane's Donuts in the Financial District. It's a top-10 donut destination, according to the Travel Channel, and a Boston Moms' favorite! Kane's also has gluten-free donuts.

For a true taste of New England, be sure to try maple bacon, Maine blueberry, and apple cider.

Take your donuts a block over to the Greenway starting at the intersection of High Street and Atlantic Avenue. Enjoy your breakfast in the park, then walk along the Greenway toward the New England Aquarium.

PM

Enjoy one of two quintessential Boston options for lunch, both under a half-mile walk from the aquarium. First up is Union Oyster House, Boston's oldest restaurant (established in 1826!). Alternatively, try Bostonia Public House.

Order clam chowder and baked beans — even on a summer day you can't miss these New England staples!

Walk down Oliver Street, over the bridge into the Seaport area of Boston. Walk the Harborwalk, take photos at Fan Pier Park, and spend some time at the Boston Children's Museum.

For a snack after the museum, try Flour Bakery by chef Joanne Chang, winner of the James Beard Award for outstanding baker.

End your evening at Legal Seafood Harborside. Make your reservation for the first floor and ask to be seated next to the windows if possible. On a warm evening, the windows will be wide open, overlooking Boston Harbor. With a bit of luck, you can catch a great sunset.

Ask for the biggest, briniest oysters they have, plus calamari and the half-pound Maine lobster roll with warm butter.
